

WORLD ECONOMY IN THE NEXT 100 YEARS (Cross display)

Reading indication: follow cards' numbering in progressive order.

6) The Moon

a. hospitality, generosity

The main consequence of the homo-centrist conception is the restoration of hospitality's traditional moral value (preserved since antiquity in the Balkan space, naturally manifesting within a populace living in hostile environments – desert or glaciers, for instance) Among its ethical influence it assembles an axiological system named humanism.

Other words for Moon: adaptation power; relationship sense; security; protective environment; favorable public acceptance

3) The Devil

a. Authority

The mathematic models predicting the present crisis are available for over two decades and the IMF experts have informed the leadership on a disaster imminence if the world financial system were to function on without a paradigm modification.

But IMF hasn't informed the business world community or the Fund's shareholders governments (for which IMF apologized later on).

The American Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has tolerated the super-sophistication of the derivatives market (even though the market principles forbid it) and the world financial market was infected by a virus, its own leader – New York.

b. Cupidity, rapacity

The concentration hit the 10% margin of the world population, owning 90% of the global wealth.

Other words for Devil: enriching by dirty means and at any cost; Machiavellian manipulation; guile; aggression; frustration; hard material life; enslavement.

1) WHEEL OF FORTUNE (upside down)

a. Deadlock

Liquidities injections solution by strong states doesn't seem to balance the world economy, not even US or EU's because the subvention needs for the system's survival exceed thousand times all world budgets' added reserves.

Europe is facing the onset of an economic quake heralded by Greece's breakdown, the danger of Spain following up, and the rest of the lot.

This will trigger the EU dismantling under French, German and English governments' pressure, well aware of their insufficient resources, aware they can't support the entire continent, and couldn't oppose nationalistic movements gradually opening the floodgates to xenophobia, chauvinism and extremism.

b. The Descendent Phase of A Cycle

Nikolai Kondratiev's cycle theory, 1925, induces the confusion we could be in the descending phase, a temporary recession, implying there's a minimum followed by the ascension resumption, relaunching. Actually we are at the beginning of our way of life's bankruptcy – that of groundless values (the inconsistency regime, originating in 1980's when Reagan Administration's Reagonomics set the trend for a relaxed legislation and business supervision, especially the speculative ones encouraged by government agencies approved by Congress, triggering the subprime crisis, 2006 – 20070).

What is going to follow won't look like the system we have lived in because there aren't any more resources for it (the virtual money speculatively created have evaporated for they hadn't existed). The present crisis consists of the juridical rights and liabilities still valid as social-economic rapports that cannot be practiced after the virtual money disappearance.

c. Routine

The belief that is a fleeting crisis leads to the economic activity's rationalization in the hope that this way the businesses will survive long enough to be able to relaunch the system despite the fact that from the crisis onset have already passed three years and its amplitude grows unchecked.

The overview is darkened by the too intense activity, just as the stokers are drowning heroically in the sinking ship's engine room instead of climbing up on deck.

Other names of Wheel of Fortune: jam; expectation; obstacle; trials.

5) The World

a. It's good to be placed in the middle of things

This would be the third official chance for the world to reach the common sense wisdom, that for Man is good 'the hub of the universe' to be the man himself (first time 2500 years ago thanks to Protagoras' famous thesis 'Man is the measure of all things, second time during Renaissance; actually, the conception depends on the traditional mentality, springing from a light much farther than the known history, without getting darkened, only narrowing during hostile conjunctures).

Other names for the World: big goals; special chances; fulfilled wishes; plenitude; self-control; openness; competence; availability; things well done.

4) The Judgement

a. Improvement, progress, modernity, openness

The depletion of budget subsidies for the artificial maintenance of a dysfunctional system will impose a global imagination effort in the economic realm generating not only social and political consequences but also ethical and cultural ones.

Eventually the world's majority mentality will change so radically it won't tolerate the waste of resources and planet alteration for the same reasons today is wasting and altering.

Technique's solutions of alternative energies will assert themselves, ecological inventiveness will amplify and the managerialism will generate the financial cycles' superposition, grafting derivate businesses from the main technologic flux irrespective if the resulted products will be meant for completely different markets than that of the main product.

2) The Death (upside down)

a. Losses, slow and agonizing transition periods

Exhausted by the arm race competition and terrorism financing, both systems – communist and capitalist – are at the end of their resources by early eighties, the Occident prolonging its economic agony speculatively (Reagonomics), an impossible systemic and ideological palliative in the East.

Rather the communism collapse at the end of that decade offered the Occident oxygen for twenty years longer.

Under the pretext 'democracy export' and 'transition support to market economy' the Occident has robbed the East-European countries (through privatization, choosing to assume the valid Eastern enterprises or forcing the shutdown of the competitive ones, and by reversing the trade balance in several areas – especially the agro-alimentary one by strategic, financial-banking maneuvers, and politically too, by the conditions imposed for EU integration and NATO admittance).

It is what we call reparations, after defeating the communism.

b. Contempt, unscrupulousness

The robbery has created collaborators in all the East-European governments, and realizing they couldn't stop the occidental vacuuming have participated for their own enrichment, in some cases willing to destroy for good up to 99% of an asset if they could keep 1% for themselves. And this is worsening the present crisis, EU links becoming more vulnerable within the chain of integrated ex-communists states.

Other names for Death: abandonment; ugliness; helplessness.

b. Balance, spiritual illumination, communication meaning

The financial markets' transnational aggressiveness will be tempered by regulations limiting speculation to optimal proportions, diminishing the flattening pressure of cultural diversity.

The nations will regain their identities restoring their specific traditions and values – an environment auspicious to creation and individual spiritual upsurge, but for the collective one as well, through the perfecting communication systems.

Other names for the Judgement: liberation; prevail; law contacts
