The neuralgic point of the European Union regarding cyber security will be in Bucharest

The European Cybersecurity Competence Centre in Bucharest will be a Mecca of cyber security on a European level and will bring together experts from all over the world, Dragoş Preda, secretary of state for Electronic Communications in the Transport, Infrastructure and Communications Minister, said on Tuesday.

Dragoş Preda: There is one essential thing, ultimately all these attacks in the health area, in the education area regard the identity security, to briefly resume the vital aspect. Our identity is the one generally targeted. It might touch aspects in the banking, financial area or the malware and so on but this identity is the vital aspect that needs to be focused on. That is why we need to develop these integrated systems and, in our strategy of digital transformation, we need to focus on the importance of cloud development, the development of this center of data analysis is necessary, it is essential for Romania.
